The Milestones 1978 staff would like to thank Hap Minhinnett, Mrs. Pennington, Miss Fessey, Rick Horton, and the many students whose photographs we used.

Special thanks also go to Deborah Ezell for her artwork, Whit Wampler for the cover design, and Mrs. Mathes and Mrs. Partee for their guidance on art work.

We would like to express our special appreciation to Mr. Bill Benson for his patience and assistance.

Milestones 1978 was printed by Herff-Jones Yearbooks, Montgomery, Alabama, in 1978.

Dedicated to Miss Hensley

It may be comforting to a Harpeth Hall student to know that the morning when she was still awake at 3:00 a.m. trying to think of an acceptable conclusion for her English paper, Janet Hensley was probably still up, too, reaching for her coffee cup between Winterim forms. Laughing with the students and faculty or hiding in her office to catch up on her work, Miss Hensley is certainly one figure within the school's administration with whom we, the students, can identify.

In fact, it seems as if the older she gets, the more she acts like us! This behavior really is not at all that surprising when one considers that she spends most of her time working with the Student Council, reading essays written by her political science class, babysitting for us, listening to our complaints about the school, listening to the school's complaints about us, or trying to figure out how to keep four hundred girls happy for the month of January.

However, we do not admire Miss Hensley simply because she seems to be a grown-up student who happens to be more efficient than we are, or just because she is THE DEAN. We respect her because she manages to know most of our names and because she continues her struggle to learn to spell a little better. Perhaps that which is most impressive about Janet Hensley is her ability to wear rubber boots, a raincoat, braids, a feather boa, and a painted face while performing a dance with a first hose in a Student Council assembly. It takes a great deal of dignity to be unafraid of losing it.

Because of her unfaltering dedication to a difficult job, because she does so much for us and does it all well, and because we love her, we dedicate the 1978 edition of Milestones to our dean, Miss Janet Hensley.

The year was divided into days, and the days were filled with people. These are the aspects of Harpeth Hall which we will remember

—the days we spent there and the people with whom we spent them. These elements combined in the history of a year. And that was 1977-1978.

Days . . . . 13    People . . . . 95

Although we spend a great deal of our time in classwork, countless other events and activities fill the remaining hours of each day. The students, faculty, and administration gather into various organizations which are continually planning, financing, and practicing for the events, games, or publications which they sponsor. Clubs specialize in community service, the arts, athletics, government, and academics. Special programs, such as Winterim, and several traditional events, such as the George Washington birthday celebration and Step-singing, taking place during the year. We give food to the needy and sell baked goods to those with a sweet tooth. While learning about drama, journalism, and foreign cultures, we produce plays, poetry, and celebrations.

Thus, winter and spring, the Harpeth Hall campus is always an active community. This section of the yearbook is intended to show in roughly chronological order how some of our days were spent in the 1977-78 school year.

Days

Senior Recognition Day

On Senior Recognition Day, the school recognizes the seniors, and the seniors acknowledge their responsibility to the school. Seniors are not really seniors 'til they have their beanies, which they receive on this important occasion. These little caps are as vital a sign of "seniority" as the privilege of wearing "regular" clothes the first Friday of every month. This year, as the seniors received their beanies, Jennifer Pennington announced the senior motto of "Live, Love, and Laugh;" and the entire Senior Class pledged to "uphold the honor of the school."

American Field Service

Last November in its "Celebration of Many Lands," the American Field Service once again turned Little Harpeth into a miniature world. In this effort to raise money to help in sponsoring an exchange student, AFS succeeded in raising the school community's awareness of other cultures. With posters, maps, music, food, crepe paper (even paper snowflakes hanging from the ceiling in the Switzerland room, where one could be fitted with skis), and above all with much hard work and creativity, students transformed classrooms into foreign "countries." Guests ate crepes in the France room or "steake an' biskits" in the Ireland room across the hall. In the Italy room, Alessandra Dechigi, this year's exchange student, supervised the preparation of authentic Italian recipes, while visitors from Colombia added a decidedly Latin American flavor to the room representing their country. Israel and Germany also put in a colorful appearance, as did the not-to-be-forgotten U.S.A. room, where guitar music and red bandana shirts contributed a real "down-home" atmosphere. The A.F.S. club successfully combined its fund-raising project with an enjoyable cross-cultural experience for many students, parents, and teachers.

Student Council Fall Play

Every year, the Student Council's fall and spring combos require money raised from many projects. Fund-raising for the spring combo began in November with the production "Impromptu," a thought-provoking one-act play. The Student Council co-sponsored this play's two production nights, November 18th and 19th, with the Drama Club members. The production of "Impromptu" revolved around the belief that life should not be acted out. It is neither planned nor predicted, merely a series of improvisations. To emphasize this philosophy, there were no props, production crews, or stage managers. The Forensics Club entered into the production with "There Are Men too Gentle to Live Among Wolves," a play including prose interpretations, poetry readings, monologues, and scenes from this year's team competitions. Both "Impromptu" and "There Are Men too Gentle to Live Among Wolves" provided a unique and individual experience to both the actors and the audience.

Junior Play

Early in the summer of '77, the Juniors began work on the Junior Play. In September, countless meetings and slumber parties later, they found themselves with a fully-written play which involved getting one hundred girls on stage, preparing a gourmet buffet dinner menu, and presenting the class theme, "Participate!"

All of the class members did, in fact, participate. Every girl contributed her own ideas on the play's subject matter, the projected amount of productions time, and the composition of songs and dances. The class decided to spend a substantial amount of time on the play and dinner, with rehearsals every school night for one month. Besides rehearsing for the play, girls had to design and build sets, paint the backdrop, draw publicity signs, sell tickets, plan the dinner, decorate the cafeteria, and prepare the food. Juniors accomplished all of these tasks with the invaluable aid of their sponsor, Mrs. Gower.

The night of the play, over six hundred people watched "Sam's Angels," investigators from the Junior Class, solve the kidnapping of Mrs. Gower and the dog Heidi. The mystery could not have been solved (nor the play produced) without the participation of each class member. Thus, the production resulted in a unified class and $900.00 to be used for the Junior Prom in the spring.

Fall Sports: Varsity Volleyball

In the second year of T.S.S.A.A. volleyball competition, the Honeybears had a fine season once again. Under the new direction of Mrs. Killmer, the long and tiring afternoons of practice certainly paid off with an overall 12-6 record. Aside from the regular season, the team made a fine showing at Franklin Road Academy and won their Invitational Tournament. The Honeybears then took second in both the District and the Regional Championships. Sally Bowers and Georgianne Moran were members of the All-District team, and Sally was also a member of the All-Regional team. Although eliminated in the State Championships, Harpeth Hall should be proud that such a fine team came from a school so small in comparison to many others in the competition. The team would not be complete, though, without the dedicated work of the managers Bess Adkins and Beth Bowers. The seniors—Sally, Georgianne, Scottie Fillebrown, and Lisa Bass—will be greatly missed; next year promises to be a rewarding one also.

Varsity Basketball

The Honeybear basketball team played a rough schedule this year as usual. However, the season seemed even tougher because the team started out with only seven veteran players and a new coach, Mrs. Killmer. Knee injuries cost the Bears Ann Ambrose for a great part of the season; and in December, a freak accident in a game against Bellevue took out Lisa Bass, a super-swift guard and co-captain of the team.

Nevertheless, Harpeth Hall held its own, coming close to breaking even in the season's record. Senior Erin Brewer, acting as co-captain with Lisa, averaged about ten points per game in her fourth year on the team. Melissa Hayes, a rookie sophomore, led scoring by averaging twenty points a game. Senior Terry Moore and junior Leslie Burton were the only other forwards with varsity experience; but newcomers Kathy Denton, Marilyn Gilliam, and Ann Ambrose all developed into effective varsity forwards during the season.

The Honeybears maintained an excellent set of guards even after the loss of Lisa Bass. Susan Crenshaw, Carol Smith, and Amy Kirkpatrick, all with past varsity experience, were aided by Alison Smith, Joanna McIntosh, and Jeanne Bass in a fantastic defense. With Carol, Joanna, Jeanne and Lisa's lightning fast feet and Susan, Amy, and Alison's height, the Bears usually managed to keep even the most highly rated teams in control. Excellent coaches Mrs. Killmer and Mrs. Lee managed to combine the new with the "old" for another successful basketball season.

Cross Country

This year's cross country team again performed outstandingly. The various titles won included the AAA Western Championships, the A.F. Bridges Invitational, the first Tennessean Invitational at Two Rivers, the Old Hickory Invitational, and the N.I.L. City Championships. The long hours of practice were especially rewarded as the team also captured the Regional and State Championships.

Steve Kramer, due to his dedicated coaching, was named the N.I.L. Coach of the Year. Members of the All-N.I.L. team this year were Sloan Burton, Jeanie Bass, Kathy McPherson, Katie Groos, Kristen Glasgow, and Evelyn Storey.

Fall Dance

November 12th was the date of the first Student Council combo at Harpeth Hall in the 1977-78 school year. The council used proceeds from Duds Day to hire Tyrone, a band more expensive than those usually hired for our combos, but one that proved to be well worth the extra dollars. Bill Davidson, a band member who taught guitar during Winterim two years ago, and the rest of the band appeared for the second half of the combo attired in matching black and white sequined soccer outfits. The unusual and impressive outfits, however, were not the only reason for the band's higher price range, for their music was popular and fun to dance to. Upper School students "rocked" from 8:00 'til 12:00, stopping when they couldn't dance any longer to have their pictures taken before an autumn backdrop of a setting sun, a scarecrow, and fallen leaves.

Winterim

Winterim '78, like past Winterims, proved to be a valuable and broadening experience for Harpeth Hall students both on and off campus. Students who remained on campus, mostly freshmen and sophomores, participated in a wide range of activities, from the more traditional crafts of decoupage and needlework to such courses as "Life and Love in the Middle Ages" or "From Grimm to Disney: What They Neglected to Tell You in Your Bedtime Stories." On-campus students also took advantage of the new Arts and Athletics Center with courses in ceramics, printmaking, fabric design, jazz, tap, modern dance, theater crew and musical comedy as well as basketball and self-defense. Off-campus athletic pursuits also included riding at the Brownland Farms, competitive swimming at the Nashville Aquatic Center, and tennis at Vanderbilt. Students also held jobs off-campus in the music industry or in the Tennessee Legislature. Many girls, however, did not even stay in Nashville during January, as trips to suit many tastes were offered. A four-day trip whisked girls off to New York for shopping and visiting museums. Some Harpeth Hall students escaped January's ice and snow by studying marine biology in the Florida Keys, while others spent the month plowing through New England snowdrifts in a van driven by Mr. Kramer. Other students did not even remain in the United States. Mrs. Carden and a group of fourteen girls spent one week in Paris and three weeks living with French families while attending a school in France, learning the language and experiencing French culture. Ms. Johnson, Miss Felkel, and Mrs. Stamps chaperoned forty-five girls on a tour of England, Scotland, and Wales, where they encountered (and brought home) Scottish plaids and English accents. Students returned to a regular schedule in February, refreshed by a break in the usual routine and with many different experiences to share with each other.

George Washington's Birthday

Who says Harpeth Hall is not a traditional school? Certainly it is not the freshman class, who revived eighteenth century styles in the annual pageant honoring George Washington's birthday. Distinguished guests enhanced the program with their stately minuet. Honored statesmen delivered speeches of admiration and congratulations to His Excellency. In response, the President offered words of confidence and appreciation regarding America and the necessary groups serving it. Two of these groups, the navy and the army, demonstrated their talent and alertness in the hornpipe dance and marching drill. Innovation overcame ritual as three waltzers proved their skill and grace.

The freshmen required dignity, agility, and precision to rise to the occasion successfully. Supervised by Miss Patty and Mrs. Mullins, the ninth graders presented the play twice for students, faculty, and parents. In appreciation for the teachers' diligence, the freshmen presented them with much-deserved flowers.

Susan Crenshaw and Lisa Bouchard were the two juniors honored as President and Lady Washington. Applause was theirs along with respectful salutes during the procession.

As the Harpeth Hall tradition was carried on, the freshmen proved their ability to mingle history with the present.

Senior Play

This year's Senior Class play was not only a play, but also a slide show organized by and featuring the seniors. To render their play even more unique, the seniors concentrated on portraying the way in which the class experiences had worked to produce that special nostalgic but happy senior feeling, instead of entertaining their audience with the more common satires of life at Harpeth Hall, complete with exaggerated imitations of faculty members. The seniors, however, by no means excluded comedy from their production ("pumpkin stew on rice" and "a used notecard box!?"). The play was based loosely on the character of Charlie Brown, except that instead of searching for the Great Pumpkin, C.B. was looking for the Great Class Spirit. Margaret finally explained to her that, "We are the Great Class Spirit because we are the Senior Class!"

Dedication of Art and Athletic Center and Wallace Wing

Although students had been using the new buildings since the beginning of the school year in September, parents and benefactors were unable to see the result of their donations until March. However, all agreed that the dedication of the new buildings was worth the waiting. Frances Bond Davis and Catherine E. Morrison, whose help was invaluable in making the building possible, attended the ceremony. The families of Marnie Sheridan, to whom the art gallery was dedicated, and of Louise Bullard Wallace, to whom the new classroom wing was dedicated, were also present. In keeping with the spirit of the building celebration, Hubert Shuptrine, well-known artist of the South, agreed to show his paintings in the Sheridan Gallery. His paintings, as well as his presence at the dedication to sign copies of his book Jericho: The South Beheld, certainly added to the festive feelings of the evening. Champagne was served along with a cocktail buffet. Appropriately, Daugh W. Smith celebrated his birthday on the night of the ceremony, and a group of Harpeth Hall students and faculty sang "Happy Birthday" in his honor. To demonstrate the use that students had already made of the buildings, the Jazz and Modern Dance groups each presented a program. Excerpts from the upcoming musical, Cinderella, were also given. The students who have profited from the buildings and the benefactors who have made them possible enjoyed what each had to offer throughout the very special evening.

Sixth Grade Pet Show

The Velveteen Rabbit

As their Seventh Grade Week project, this year's seventh graders starred in their own production of The Velveteen Rabbit. In this musical, with Mrs. Williams and Mrs. Lee directing and with Mrs. Wolery assisting with music direction, Laura Watson played the role of the rabbit who wanted to become real. She accomplished this feat with the aid of the Fairy, Morre Morford, and the Skin Horse, Sarah Nichols. The seventh graders in this production, an elaborate one for such young performers, captured the hearts of many with their performance.

Student Council

As Harpeth Hall's governing body, the Student Council handles all complaints, suggestions, and simultaneously tries to keep everyone in line. This year along with this responsibility, the members managed to throw two unforgettable combos financed by their sale of V-neck sweaters, which they introduced into the uniform. They sponsored plays, worked in concession stands downtown, took part in dedication services, and participated in an exchange with M.B.A. and B.G.A. In addition, they raised over $3000.00 for muscular dystrophy in a twenty-four-hour dance-a-thon. Council members earned a rather crazy reputation through various skits ranging from impersonating a rock band to dressing up as St. Patrick's Day elves and baking a green shamrock cake large enough for the entire school to eat. As the year drew to a close, the Student Council felt that it had reached its goal of making this year more fun, memorable, and exciting.

Seven girls and five faculty members compose a very vital organization in the school, the Student-Faculty Committee. It is these twelve individuals who bridge the communication gap between students and teachers. They discuss matters of importance to the school, contribute suggestions, and generally attempt to make Harpeth Hall's atmosphere all the more agreeable by minimizing the number of complaints. Anyone may bring up issues of interest in a weekly meeting open to the student body.

Without this group of concerned faculty and student members, both complaints and fresh ideas might be stifled. Within this organization, however, we are grateful for such excellent representation.

Spring Sports: Varsity Tennis

The Varsity tennis team once again had a successful year. Even with the several minor accidents and illnesses that occurred late in the season, the girls still pulled through with a perfect 12-0 record in the N.I.L. Coached by Miss Patty, the tennis team competed against neighboring and local schools to achieve this overwhelming record. The girls also traveled to Chattanooga and placed fourth in the Rotary Tournament. The team's hard work, skill, and determination were well recognized after its wins; and next year promises to be another peak year in Harpeth Hall tennis.

Varsity Track

Harpeth Hall's 1978 Varsity Track team faced stiff competition this spring. Although members were quite talented and dominated the events in which they competed, the team members suffered somewhat from a lack of diversity which kept them from winning many major meets. Harpeth Hall participated in four dual meets, winning two and losing two. The team then traveled to Chattanooga where it placed fourth in the Baylor Relays. The relay team set a record in the two mile relay, a new event for girls this year which Harpeth Hall dominated throughout the season; and Sloan Burton set the record in the mile run. In Nashville the girls placed third in both the Optimist and Green Hills Invitational meets as well as performing well in the District competition.

The Arts at Harpeth Hall

This year saw the fruition of Mrs. Partee's industry in designing our new studios. Her vision was fulfilled when students were able to begin using the new rooms a full three months ahead of schedule. Students discovered new vigor in their work as a result of the spacious facilities and the capable teaching of Mrs. Partee, Mrs. Atkins, and Mrs. Mathes, a valuable addition to the faculty this year. So heightened were both the general quality of work and the degree of student interest that art students managed a professional-looking show in the new gallery in addition to the annual clothesline show. Not to be outdone, faculty members also displayed their work in the Sheridan Gallery, the location of several one-man exhibits ranging from that of the highly abstract Jane Ann Dill to the watercolors of the nationally renowned Hubert Shuptrine.

Protest-Contest

This year the faculty offered the students an extra special treat. Sponsored by the Student-Faculty Committee, the faculty production, Protest Contest, attempted to raise money for the purchase of an electric typewriter. In the play, the teachers, because of student complaints to Miss McMurry, walk out on their jobs and seek work elsewhere. Three students, aptly played by Mrs. Pennington, Mrs. Gower and Mrs. Marney, decide to go downtown and check out how their old teachers are faring. Surprisingly, they discover that some are a bit more talented than they had expected, including the blond-haired and buxom Libby Evans and Jan Dixon wailing country music and the exotic dancing of Mrs. Mullins, Miss Hensley, Mrs. Schmid, Mrs. Justus, and a brief step or two from our esteemed headmistress, Miss McMurry. Without a doubt, the entire student body spent most of assembly "rolling in the aisles" as other teachers, including Mr. Kramer, Mr. Byrd, and Mr. Pavia, donned plaid kilts and exchanged places with the students. Because of this faculty production, students have suddenly realized that their teachers can, indeed, do a great deal more than merely teach!

Spring Dance Concert

Assemblies

Dance

In one year, Harpeth Hall has progressed from offering no dance at all to boasting four dance clubs, two of which performed in an independent schools' art festival at Webb School in Knoxville. Under the direction of Mrs. Leslie Mullins, the advanced modern dance group performed in an assembly, the dedication of the new buildings, at an Alumnae Association meeting, and in Knoxville, as well as in a major spring dance concert. This group of girls not only danced but also designed much of their own choreography. In addition, Mrs. Mullins directed a modern group which performed in assembly and in the dance concert. Miss Kyle Ellis conducted a jazz dance club, whose members performed in assembly, the building dedication, and the Knoxville festival, adding variety to the programs with their innovative dances to contemporary music. Few people realize the time and hard work that dancers put into their art. Their work has paid off, however, resulting in talent-filled, professional-looking performances.

Cinderella

Harpeth Hall's first full length musical, Rogers and Hammerstein's Cinderella, was jointly directed by Rebecca Collins and Kyle Ellis. The members of the Nashville Symphony Orchestra played the musical score, which greatly contributed to the tremendous success of the play. The production was lavishly costumed, thanks to several sewing mothers and students. Even with the impressive scenery, music, staging and costumes, the play could not have succeeded as greatly if not for the able direction of Mrs. Collins and Miss Ellis, the acting, singing and dancing of the many students involved, including Martha Stamps in the lead, David Crouch of Overton High School as the prince, and Becky Hinshaw and Jennifer Orth as the ugly stepsisters. None of these actors and actresses had ever spent as much time and energy on one production. Everyone's hard work proved worthwhile, however, with superior performances presented both Friday and Saturday nights.

Penstaff

Penstaff is a group of individuals who enjoy sharing their feelings and ideas by putting them into words on paper. Besides sharing feelings, this group also enjoys listening to other people's thoughts; by experiencing the dreams, frustrations and everyday tangles of others, Penstaff brings them together in the publication of Hallmarks. The overall purpose of Penstaff is to promote writing as a means of self-expression. Membership in this organization is recognition of an individual's ability to share her joy in writing with others.

After about three Friday afternoon meetings, new members on the annual staff have a tendency to comment as they sit on the staff room floor surrounded by cropping wheels, shredded 3-R forms, and potato chip crumbs: "Gee, I never knew the annual staff worked so hard!" Now, we could easily follow that opening sentence with a four-page dissertation on exactly what the yearbook staff went through to get this book in its readers' hands (maybe it would even take eight pages—in small type). Or we could follow the other precedent and discuss the immense value of the yearbook to all who read it. However, neither approach would really capture the spirit of all those Friday afternoons (and Saturday mornings and spare study halls and Wednesday nights until 11:00 and occasional Thursdays) when this dedicated group of twenty-four students plus one exhausted faculty member assembled in the annual staff room to accomplish all of those tasks that we did not list.

A unique mixture of enthusiasm, talent, anticipation, and pride in the members made the annual staff meetings particularly exciting this year. From our first gathering early last summer to those last frantic days the week of graduation, we knew that this yearbook could be special—and would be if we all put out our best efforts. We do not mind saying now that we think we have done a good job. We certainly hope that you agree.

Logos II

Published several times yearly, Logos II is the result of more than a dozen hard-working girls. Sponsored by Mrs. Ward, the school newspaper not only keeps us informed of the latest happenings around school, but also supplies us with information on many other issues of interest. Articles featuring reviews on concerts, the newest restaurants, and the latest fashions keep us up-to-date on what is going on in the community. This year's Logos II staff, managed by Bess Adkins, is to be commended for its coverage of school affairs.

Middle School Council

The Middle School Council is a group of fifteen very honored girls elected by the student body to decide on many activities for the Middle School and to enforce its rules. The president, Jane Linebaugh, the vice-president, Ashley Morgan, the secretary, Cey Gray, and the fifteen class representatives work with Mrs. Jenkins every week to make new plans. This summer, Jane and Ashley spent many hours at school writing the Student Handbook, planning orientation, covering bulletin boards with burlap, and cleaning up the Middle School. The Student Council sponsored a terrific Student-Faculty talent show. Some of the teachers astonished us with new and unexpected talents. To make money, the Council sponsors Duds Days and Tacky Days. The council members sold Honeybear buttons in the fall to raise funds for great surprises. Even though they are strict, students say that they like their "super" Middle School Student Council members.

Junior-Senior Day

Sophomore Play

This year's sophomore play offered a special tribute to the class of 1978. Susie Bruninga traced the history of the Senior Class from the time that the first members started in the sixth grade up to their approaching graduation, and other members of the Sophomore Class performed in scenes depicting especially memorable events of the seven years.

Middle School Honor Day

This year's Eighth Grade Class was the very first one to have its Honor Day in the new auditorium. Although eighth graders have had fun this year, they have also worked very hard and are ready to go on to the Upper School. At Honor Day, Mrs. William G. Simpson, the Ancient History teacher, delivered a marvelous speech. In addition, many girls received awards for their outstanding achievements. Tish Tully, Julie Cox, and Louisa Gibbs received class spirit awards. In Latin and in French, Bethany Graham and Hannah Bond received high honors. Hannah Bond, Carrie Daughtery, Bethany Graham, and Jennifer Harwell were awarded certificates for placing in a local math contest. Margaret Snell was honored for her perfect attendance record over the three years. All four clubs, Angkor, Ariston, Eccowasin, and Triad, tied for the athletics trophy, but the Eccowasin Club won both the citizenship award and the Club Bowl. After the presentation of awards, Dr. Daugh W. Smith handed out the diplomas. Finally, the Eighth Grade Class of 1978 was dismissed by Miss Fessey for the last time.

All-Club Picnic

At All Club Picnic this year, the usual skits and conferring of awards were overshadowed by the farewell of three of Harpeth Hall's dearest friends. Mrs. Dorothea Griffin, Chairman of the History Department; Miss Ella Puryear Mims, Chairman of the Language Department and Mrs. Betty Partee, Chairman of the Art Department, retired from teaching this June. Harpeth Hall is losing a part of its foundation with the departure of these three ladies, but their work and all that they have accomplished for the school will remain.

After the new Student Council officers were installed, athletic, scholastic and artistic awards were conferred. Eccowasin won the song competition for the first time in many years, and Miss McMurry announced the Lady of the Hall, Amy Grant, and her court. Thus, amid laughter, goodbyes, tears and congratulations, another year at Harpeth Hall drew to a close.

Senior Banquet

Step Singing

At Step Singing, Jennifer Pennington, Senior Class President, presented the seniors' gift to the school. The threefold gift reflected the senior theme of live, love, and laugh, with a dogwood tree to represent the school's growth, a T.V. for the senior house to promote laughter, and a special new award to show their love for the school and its students. Because this class included the first graduates who had attended Harpeth Hall since the sixth grade, the seniors established the '78 Award to honor the sixth grader most exemplifying their class theme. The sixth graders chose Mandy Ables as this year's recipient of the award. The '78 graduates hope that this award as well as their other gifts will help to keep Harpeth Hall living, loving, and laughing for many years to come.

Lady of the Hall

The school has long recognized Amy Grant as a person who truly embodies the ideals of Harpeth Hall. During her freshman and sophomore years, Amy served as maid to Lady of The Hall. She was elected Sophomore Class President and, as a tribute to the splendid job she did, she was elected a junior representative to the Student Council. However, it was not only Amy's class which recognized her as a wonderful individual. Not only was she elected Martha Washington by the freshmen, but she was also chosen for several honors during her senior year. She was class secretary and often class songleader. Amy is most well-known throughout the school as a person with a singular talent for singing and for living as she sings: with love and laughter. Amy's first album came out during the school year, and for a week or so many girls carried a copy of the album with their books, waiting for a chance to get her to sign it. The album seemed to many to be the fruit of the years of Amy's concerts on the lawn and in the auditorium, her leadership of club and class songs, and most of all her successful attempt to live in a way consistent with her joyful and uplifting songs. Thus, the school has appropriately recognized Amy's success by electing her Lady of The Hall.

Courtnay Chenault Baron, Amy Grant, Mary Evelyn Brooks.

Citizenship Bracelet and Katie Wray Award

This year the Citizenship Bracelet and the Katie Wray Award both went to the same girl: Bess Adkins. Citizenship points are awarded by several different groups, such as the teachers, Student Council representatives, class officers, and club sponsors and officers. These points reflect a student's attitude toward her schoolwork, the rules of the school, her responsibilities as an officer, and toward other girls in the school. Bess has obviously always had an outstanding attitude in all of these areas. She was active in the Junior Classical League her first three years at Harpeth Hall and served as treasurer her sophomore year. She has worked on the Logos II staff for four years and proved very responsible as editor-in-chief her senior year. However, her helpful attitude is perhaps best reflected in the assistance she has given the athletic teams and coaches. Having served as manager for the basketball and volleyball teams during her junior and senior years, and as manager for the track team her senior year, Bess was awarded a special varsity jacket and the title "Varsity Manager" by the teams and coaches.

Bess has an equally outstanding record in academics. As a National Merit Scholarship finalist, she received a $1000 scholarship which she plans to utilize at Vanderbilt University next fall. She is a three-time winner of the Sophie Dobson Award for excellence in academics, and was initiated into the Cum Laude Society her junior year. She has also been a member of the Mu Alpha Theta Society for three years and was the recipient of the Mu Alpha Theta Mathematics Award at graduation. Bess has always placed within the top four in the region in the National Mathematics Contest, finishing third this year in the Advanced Topics division. Finally, she received the Pickens Science Award, given to the graduate who has shown outstanding achievement and interest in science.

It is a rare occurrence for one girl to receive both of the top awards given by Harpeth Hall; but because Bess Adkins represents excellence in the fields of both scholarship and citizenship, she is equally deserving of both honors.

Graduation

To experience a Harpeth Hall graduation as a senior is to face the astounding feeling of being on the threshold of the future. This year, eighty-six girls participated in graduation in much the same manner as hundreds of girls before them. Walking down the brick walk in the late afternoon sun to the strains of the traditional processional, seniors awakened at last to the fact that this was their own graduation. However, somewhere between the traditional dressing in white and the ceremonial crossing of the green and white platform, each girl was confronted with her own individual responsibility for her future. Whether graduates chose to face or to avoid the challenge presented by this new awareness, they realized that they could no longer rely on the security of their status as seniors or entirely on friends and teachers to determine how they would respond to that challenge.

The speech by Caroline Van Cleave and the remarks by Miss McMurry stirred much reflection and more than a few tears. Although no mere ceremony could have severed the ties of love and friendship which these Harpeth Hall girls had created during their years together, the feeling of a diploma finally grasped in the hands of each graduate drove home the understanding that she and her classmates must now separate. Nevertheless, as seniors sang their class song for the last time, every girl realized that she would take with her the strength of eighty-five other seniors and the love and concern of faculty members and friends. As they parted, graduates expressed the hope that they would find a worthwhile cause to which they might devote both their talents developed at Harpeth Hall and the skills to be acquired at college.

*We're caught up in a world that's running in circles.
We're caught up in a world that hasn't got time.
Yes, we're caught up in a world that's telling us to hurry,
But can't you see that we've got to take the time?
They say we'll make it on our own,
But I know sometimes I feel so alone;
Ain't it good to have a home?
So, whenever life has got you down,
Don't you listen to that rainy day clown.
Can't you see he's upside down?*

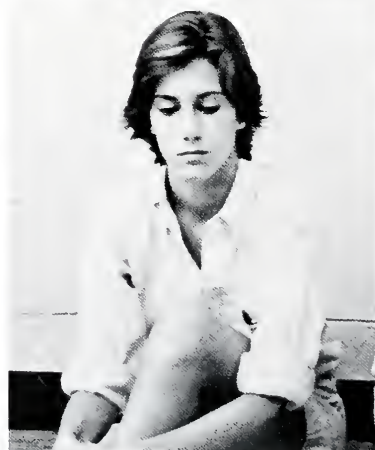

*Why must we go on and hurt each other so?
There's so much love here inside.
Why must we fight just to save our childish pride
When there is so much love inside?*

*We're caught up in a world that's running in circles.
We're caught up in a world that hasn't got time.
Yes, we're caught up in a world that's telling us to hurry,
But can't you see that we've got to take the time?
Yes, we will make it on our own,
But for now we just can't stand all alone
'Cause we've got to make a home together.
Yes, we will make it on our own,
But for now we just can't stand all alone
'Cause we've got to make a home together.
Someday we'll make it on our own,
But for now we just can't stand all alone
'Cause we're making us a home together.*

Generalizations about the group of people who make up the Harpeth Hall community are easy to make. The group can be divided into two classes with reference to their purpose in the community: the students are here to learn, and the faculty, administration, and maintenance crews are here to facilitate the learning process. The majority of these people are female. One would probably find that political beliefs are relatively consistent within the group, and that the lifestyles of the individual members are often similar. However, an assessment of the talents, goals, and attitudes of each individual at Harpeth Hall would probably be impossible to complete even in the course of a year. Each student, administrator, teacher, secretary, and maintenance person exhibits an entirely unique character and orientation towards life.

It is this diversity of personalities along with the constants shared by the majority of the members of the Harpeth Hall community that give Harpeth Hall its distinct nature and that have made the 1977-78 year different from any other. Therefore, in this section of our book, we introduce those who have contributed to this year and explore a tiny bit of the personalities of the people at Harpeth Hall.

People

Idanelle McMurry

Miss McMurry has one of the friendliest and most familiar faces seen on the Harpeth Hall campus. As well as being acknowledged as the organizational force behind Harpeth Hall, Miss McMurry has also won an impressive amount of community recognition. Her past honors include having served as president of the Tennessee Association of Independent Schools, the Mid-South Association of Independent Schools, the Southern Association of Independent Schools, and the National Association of Independent Schools. She has recently completed her term as the president of the National Association of Principals of Schools for Girls and is presently serving as the chairman of the Secondary Commission of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools. She has numerous civic and social affiliations and her many honors even include a listing in Who's Who of American Women and Who's Who in America. Although this is an impressive listing, it represents only the highlights of her many accomplishments.

Perhaps, though, Miss McMurry's most impressive talent is her ability to work so effectively with students on the individual level, as when she schedules classes and helps students to choose their courses for the school year. Indeed, Miss McMurry's remarkable dedication continues to guide Harpeth Hall forward.

Polly Fessey

Miss Fessey is the guiding force that keeps Harpeth Hall's Middle School running smoothly. As an indispensable part of the Middle School, she is called to fill many roles at once. Besides scheduling classes and faculty meetings and organizing various other school programs, she also finds time to talk over problems and schedules with students. In past years, she has had the added responsibility of organizing Interim for the Middle School.

However, Miss Fessey is not only outstanding in her involvement as Director of the Middle School. She has previously served as Secretary of the Mid-South Association of Independent Schools and is presently serving as Treasurer. As a Professional Girl Scout, she became executive director of the Cumberland Valley Girl Scout Council. She also holds the office of Secretary of the Administrative Board at Belmont Methodist Church.

Her cheery smile brightening the Middle School, Miss Fessey always takes an interest in what is going on with each particular student. Perhaps, though, our feelings for Miss Fessey are best summarized in the words of a special Honorary Citation which she received from the MAIS "for her gracious ways and gentle manner" in dealing with educational administration.

Penelope Mountfort

If, while on campus, you happen to bump into a statuesque lady floating around Souby Hall with a bright, warm smile, you have probably found Miss Penny. Miss Penny, or Miss Penelope Mountfort, as she is less commonly known, is one of the most indispensable individuals at Harpeth Hall. For all students, she is the regulator of standardized tests as well as counselor. For seniors, however, she is the vital link between them and various universities and is an important factor in decisions concerning college choices. She is an extremely active person who, regardless of all her work, always maintains her understanding smile and her magnanimous quality of being a patient listener to both personal and academic problems. These are the characteristics that have made Miss Penny the special person she is and such an important part of Harpeth Hall.

Janet Hensley

Clearly, Miss Hensley is a woman of many talents. As a teacher, she lectures on political science; as advisor, she deals personally with the hopes and problems of students. As the sponsor of the Student Council, she helps the students make rules for the school and takes disciplinary action for offenses. As a member of the Student-Faculty Committee, Miss Hensley helps to establish good rapport between the teachers and girls. As Dean of Students, perhaps her greatest undertaking, Miss Hensley not only designs the Upper School Winterim programs (scheduling students' classes, planning trips, arranging work-study programs), but also resolves disciplinary problems. Amazingly enough, with all of these responsibilities, Miss Hensley manages to complete her work competently while bringing a personal interest to all of her many tasks.

Lucile McLean

As Harpeth Hall's Business Manager, Mrs. McLean's duties are endless. We all run into her at some time when we need change for a dollar, have lost a book, or decide to take a semester of typing. These duties, however, only scratch the surface of her many tasks. She spends most of her time keeping the general ledger, sending bills, and keeping the payroll in order. She also finds the time to manage the bookstore and keep the minutes for the Board of Trustees meeting.

Peggy Herring

If we were to single out one person to whom to show our gratitude for raising the money to build our new Arts and Athletics Center, we would undoubtedly thank Miss Peg Herring, our Director of Finance and Development at Harpeth Hall. Much of her time over the past three or four years has been spent supervising the Fund Raising Campaign; and although her task is not altogether finished, we have our beautiful new buildings as the result of her hard work. This particular campaign, however, is not her only duty. She also manages Harpeth Hall's budget, which is a most time-consuming job in itself.

Polly Nichols

A person with whom we perhaps become better acquainted after our graduation is Mrs. Polly Nichols. As Director of Alumnae, she compiles and publishes the Harpeth Hall Alumnae News. Upon graduation, each class elects agents to help her keep "in touch" with graduates. This yearly publication is intended not only to let the "grads" know exactly what is going on with the ever-changing Harpeth Hall campus, but also to catch them up on the latest news, such as who has just married whom or who has just become the latest "mom." Most definitely, she is responsible for keeping those fading memories of high school life from slipping away quite so quickly.

The Sixth Grade this year was bustling with activity. In the fall, girls enjoyed a field trip to the Game Farm. In the spring, a bake sale raised money for the Heart Fund. Sixth graders topped off this fund-raising project, part of a special Valentine's Day effort, with a Valentine party.

Their pet show brought dogs, cats, birds, fish, and various other animals to school to be judged on grooming, breed, and even "lovability." Sixth graders enjoyed their first year at Harpeth Hall and decided that, "It's fun to be the youngest!"

Seventh Graders, some with their experience of one year and others new to Harpeth Hall's ways, expressed their views towards the school with mixed emotions.

Their enthusiasm is reflected in their feelings regarding the school spirit and loyalty: one girl rated the spirit of the Middle School and Upper School as being "above average" and "way below average" respectively. "Great" was a common response; and one girl, feeling more strongly, said it was "really tremendous."

If Harpeth Hall were not strict about rules, which would they break? Favorites include, "chewing gum," "breaking in line at lunch," "running in halls," "talking and helping each other in study halls," and a unanimous one, "walking all over the grass!"

This group of Middle Schoolers responded about their class: "I like it," "It's nice," or "the pits." Some bad points were "strictness," "amount of homework (teachers think that's all we have to do)," or "rules," "uniforms" and "no boys—we don't even have a combo!" One seventh grader, in an especially irate mood, spoke out against the long pledge—not for the assumed reason but for a practical one: "It gives (her) writer's cramp!"

In responding to Milestones' questions, the seventh graders gave the unquestionable advice that: "You shouldn't eat the hamburgers!" They said that whether or not they would send their daughter to Harpeth Hall would depend definitely on their daughter's personal preference.

Realizing the value of their class (because "Harpeth Hall is helping me for the future!"), these girls feel that, despite Harpeth Hall's difficulty and its need for some changes, school is definitely "worth it!"

What's it like being an eighth grader at Harpeth Hall? "It's an experience," according to one member of this year's graduating Middle School class. The majority of her classmates seem to support her opinion, hinting, "It's a difference from the seventh grade." To some this difference means that there is more pressure, homework, and tests and less free time. Nevertheless, the Eighth Grade prides itself as a "pretty good" class with "terrific" school spirit "superior to that of the upper school" and "extra great at soccer games."

The eighth graders invite any new students to join them but not without a few words of warning: "Harpeth Hall means getting a good education and a good preparation for college, but only through lots of hard work and studying."

On the other hand, there's a beautiful new gym and auditorium building that's a fantastic asset to the campus. Most of the girls are friendly, cheerful and fun! These eighth graders don't spend their weekends only doing homework; they enjoy Vandy games, weekends on a farm, and time spent with friends. Their favorite rules to break include chewing gum and leaving study hall without permission. These girls feel that they are a "neat" class, even if the eighth grade year is "quite a challenge"!

The Freshmen at Harpeth Hall have a myriad of feelings about the "Harpeth Hall experience," but all agree that it's "something new." There are several aspects of Harpeth Hall which impress the Freshmen a great deal—both positively and negatively.

All of the freshmen agree that Harpeth Hall is "about the best academically." However, the school seems to "expect (them) to study all the time." Indeed, freshmen think a lot about time passing and how they fit into it. As one girl commented, "I feel young and worried," and "on the weekends, I study." "We are encouraged to spend time in activities outside of school, but we work too much." However, the energy exerted is not all wasted: "It prepares you for real life and the future." "I find it easier to sit down and get things done." In summary, hard work brings "opportunities and self-discipline."

Freshman Class

Another subject about which the freshman feel strongly is the kind of people who go to Harpeth Hall and the kind of people it produces. "The main problem with the girls who go to Harpeth Hall is that they are not boys!" "There are all kinds of people in the world, and we may not be able to be as comfortable around them if we are isolated from them at school." About the girls who go to Harpeth Hall, freshmen believe that "some are nice, and some are snobs, but that's human nature." Most, however, "try hard." "It helps you take responsibility." Some think that "it's too strict."

Freshman Class

The topic which reveals the most about the freshmen's attitude towards the disciplinary policy is the favorite rule to break. Many girls want food more than anything else! "Getting two desserts," "eating lifesavers," and "chewing gum" are against the rules; but it seems difficult to enforce them much of the time. However, there is respect for the "government" of the school. Urges one freshman, "more power to the Student Council and the Student-Faculty Committee!" There are many aspects that freshmen unanimously like: "The new building is fantastic! The only thing I don't like is that we don't get to use it enough." "The new facilities open up a lot of new opportunities." What freshmen really like, though, is "being freshmen!" One girl summed up the experience concisely: "FUN!!!"

About their class, sophomores replied, "It's harder than being a Frosh but it's great having a class younger than us!" and "SOPHOMORES ARE DEFINITELY THE BEST!"

When asked about favorite rules to break, they responded, "skipping study hall," "chewing gum," and "breaking into the lunch line." The most popular weekend activity was "partying as much as possible" and "homework." "We all wear plaid skirts and saddle shoes, but thank goodness we're all different."

This statement certainly reflects the nature of the Junior Class and of their attitudes, influenced perhaps by their being the largest class in the history of the school. Actually, there is no moderate statement to describe the juniors' attitude towards Harpeth Hall. Some juniors were totally satisfied, while others seemed totally unsatisfied. One girl (who must not attend any classes) said, "I think Harpeth Hall's just a social and athletic club." Others stated, "It's usually okay; but at times, I hate it." "This is a really fine school; I wouldn't go anywhere else." "It's hard, but worth it." "I love it."

"Skipping study hall" was by far the number one rule to break, but the juniors' absence in study hall seems to have been compensated for by a strong showing in detention hall. "Eating candy in study hall," "chewin' gum," and "going through the lunch line twice" were also top detention-getters. (Growing girls need their nourishment?) Other pet peeves included, "the locked door in the junior room," "the pressure of grades," "trying to park when there are seven other cars trying to get past," and, "seniors walking through the junior room."

Junior Class

Some juniors had amusingly paradoxical feelings about the girls at Harpeth Hall, such as the girls who felt that the students were "mostly snobs; but some are nice, like my best friends." Most juniors seemed content with the "type" of girl who goes to Harpeth Hall. "All are very different, and each has her own degree of 'craziness'." Although some girls seemed dissatisfied with their roles, most juniors were happy with their class. "For such a large class, I think we've managed to pull together well—the play really helped!" The juniors would like to encourage everyone to "PARTICIPATE!"

"Harpeth Hall is like a see-saw. If you stand in the middle and find just the right balance for each side, it's great. You get out of it exactly what you put into it; but if you go too far on either side, you either try to do too much, or else, you don't get enough out of school. Though it may not always be easy to find and hold the middle, somehow, it seems worthwhile to try."

The Seniors were, on the whole, extremely positive and enthusiastic about the people and the school. Comments on the class ranged from the enthusiastic, "The Senior Class is completely different from any other. Everyone is excited about college and where friends may go. It's a common experience that brings us all together," to the succinct "Senior = Nirvana." When asked if she would send her child to Harpeth Hall, one Senior replied, "Yes, if she's a girl." Most Seniors agreed that they would send their daughters here (one girl adding, "If she wants to go") for the superior education. One Senior even asserted that Harpeth Hall is "the only place in Nashville to get a decent education." On the lighter side, one senior's answer to the question was "Definitely. Where else could she meet such neat people, make such great friends, and learn to stand up when someone enters the room?" Some Seniors, however, did have pet peeves about the school, such as the rule of "having to take your coat off as soon as you enter the building," "pressure," and "some people's disrespect for the honor code." Despite the human tendency to pick out the negative aspects of situations, several Seniors couldn't come up with any elements of the school that bothered them! One comment illustrating this pleasantly surprising attitude was "I can't think of anything that really irritates me, and believe me—I'm trying!"

Since this is the first Senior Class to graduate having been at Harpeth Hall since the sixth grade, girls have had seven years of experience to form an opinion of the people here, whom one Senior described as "absolutely insane and original." Yet another comment was "they are zany, sweet, considerate, occasionally stuck-up, and my best friends!" Such creative personalities as the afore-mentioned are bound to have some pretty unusual activities on the weekends. Senior weekend activities include "going hog wild," "going out with the girls—to a football or basketball game or to a movie," "never studying until Sunday night," and simply "breathing." Seniors do some equally interesting things while in school, too. Among favorite rules to break, Seniors cited "walking through the Junior Room," "eating candy in class," and "wearing non-uniform socks (tee hee)." Seniors have also enjoyed the new building while at school. They commented that "the new building is fantastic, but the people enjoying it make it what it is." It was "worth selling all those magazine subscriptions."

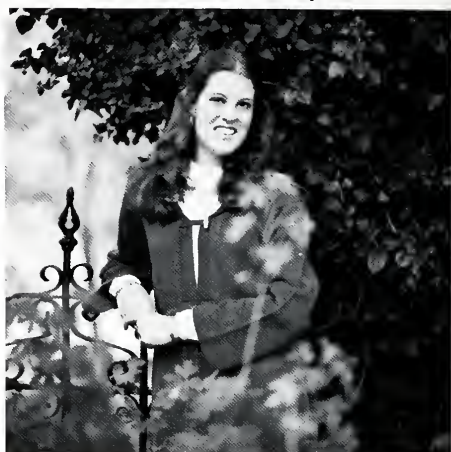

Class spirit was at an all time high, but one senior's interesting comment about the school spirit as a whole was, "the school spirit is exactly that—a spirit; it isn't real." One girl commented that while school spirit was somewhat weak, most students are proud of the school. They were especially proud of the new building "because it represents 'a joint effort of all involved at Harpeth Hall.'" Other benefits that Seniors derive from the school are less material. One student expressed her feeling that Harpeth Hall teaches "responsibility, 'smarts,' and getting along with other people." Several expressed the sentiment that the people at Harpeth Hall represent a variety—"like the whole world." One said that "Harpeth Hall girls, although many of them never realize it, are as diverse in their interests and personalities as any group of people almost anywhere. There are trends, but no stereotypes." Other students, however, deny that there is a great deal of diversity among Harpeth Hall girls. One described Harpeth Hall as "one big unified plaid!" Although one girl did not think Harpeth Hall has prepared her for "life in the real world" other than academically, most agreed that they would probably find college easy as a result of Harpeth Hall's preparation. On the whole, the Seniors' positive comments seem to indicate that Harpeth Hall has many excellent opportunities to offer especially when one views it in retrospect. Although minor daily irritations blind us sometimes to the better elements in our lives, Seniors seem to point out that we have to LIVE, LOVE, and most of all LAUGH.

"What can I write about Harpeth Hall? Well, the first thing that I can say is that I came from an Italian public school (girls and boys) that is completely different from this for many reasons. It was hard at the beginning of the school year to get used to this school, but now it is a little easier. The first time that I came here to Harpeth Hall was during the last days of August, with Jennifer. I was fascinated by the beautiful campus. It was a very nice day—sun shining and all—and the big trees made a big, big shadow. I met a girl who started talking so fast that I could say just '... yes ... yes ... smiling all the time. I still like the campus, but not when it's raining and I have to go to assembly!!! What about the uniforms? Well, I'll tell you that the first day of school was the first time after—I guess—two or three years, that I wore a skirt! Isn't that fun? When I was still in Rome, and I received the A.F.S. application, my father was so happy reading that I would have a 'skirt uniform'! He loves skirts—of course—and he has the misfortune to have a daughter that dislikes them. Another thing that I like is the carpet that is in everywhere. In the Italian schools, there is not such a comfortable thing, and that's a pity!

"However, I don't want to talk just about exterior things of Harpeth Hall. I know that this is a very hard school for all of you—I mean that it is harder than the other schools in the town—but I can say that my school in Italy is really a lot harder! So, don't worry about it; I tell you that from an outsider's point of view, you are very, very lucky to be here. What else can I say?"

ADVICE TO THE 1979 EDITORS

Don't lock yourself in Souby Hall.

Don't forget about Triad Homecoming.

Be very nice to Miss Libby, Mr. Uchida, and Mr. Benson (even when they aren't very nice to you.)

Have lots of parties (after the pages have been mailed.)

"Mark had a date with who?!"
